Music festival welcomes Few

The Haliburton Highlands Music Festival is delighted to announce the details of its 2017 festival. The festival classes will be held from Thursday, April 20, through Saturday, April 22, at the Northern Lights Performing Arts Pavilion in Haliburton village. The Highlights Concert will be in the same location at 7 p.m. on Thursday, April 27.

The organizing committee is especially excited that the brilliant Guy Few will be back again as the adjudicator for all classes in the festival. He was a huge hit with participants in the 2013 and 2014 festivals, and he is looking forward to returning. For those who don't know Guy, you can find out all about him at www.guyfew.com.

The festival now has an online presence to help everyone keep in touch. Updates will be posted on its Facebook page (facebook.com/haliburtonhighlandsmusicfestival). The syllabus and entry form are now available from its new web page (elainebell.ca/haliburton-highlands-music-festival), and the program for the 2017 festival will be posted there sometime in March.

Teachers, music group leaders, and performers are welcome to be added to an email list to receive updates. If you're interested, please contact Elaine Bell at bushandbell@gmail.com.

If you have any questions about the festival, please don't hesitate to contact Lauren McInnes at 705-457-5115 or email her at laurenmc@me.com.

Everyone is welcome to attend the festival classes and highlights concert and enjoy the musical talents of people in our community. Performers include singers, pianist, and instrumentalists of all ages. They would welcome your presence, and you will enjoy their performances. Attendance at the classes is free, and there is a small charge for the concert. Mark your calendars now, and plan to be there in April.

A call to arms: time to get vaccinated

November seems to fly by in the blink of an eye, even with the extra hour we receive pushing back the clocks. Maybe it's the shorter, darker days, or the barrage of ads reminding us there are only so many shopping days left until Christmas.

In the hustle and bustle of November, it's worth making time for vaccines. That includes getting a free flu shot!

With flu season here, it's nice to know flu shots are readily available at doctor's offices and pharmacies. For families with children under five, the health unit is offering special flu shot clinics in November where both young children and parents can get flu vaccines. To book an appointment, call the health unit at 1-866-888-4577, ext. 1507.

We shouldn't stop at just getting our flu shots. Let's make a point to ensure all our family's vaccination records are up-to-date. Like the flu shot, vaccines are safe and effective. For decades, vaccines have been saving lives around the world. In Ontario, we're fortunate that vaccines, which protect against measles, tetanus, whooping cough, chickenpox, influenza and many other common diseases, are recommended and offered free of charge (www.ontario.ca/vaccines).

In the not-so-distant past, vaccine-preventable diseases took a dreadful toll on people. Today, because of widespread vaccination efforts, illnesses and deaths from these diseases have been dramatically reduced. Maybe it's complacency in not seeing the dangers of these diseases that led some people to refuse or put off being vaccinated.

In fact, vaccinations should be part of a healthy lifestyle – no different than putting infants and young children in child car seats, or insisting that our children wear proper helmets when biking or skating.

Again, let's use flu, or influenza, as an example. Flu is a contagious, respiratory infection caused by influenza viruses. Every winter, flu can lead to mild and severe illness that results in thousands of Ontarians being hospitalized. Some may even die from the flu.

Anyone can get the flu, but young children, older adults and people with compromised immune systems have a greater risk of getting sick and suffering more severe complications. In our own families, we may have a young child or an older parent/grandparent who fall into this vulnerable category.

By getting the flu shot, we are helping to protect our loved ones from getting sick! Flu shots remain one of the best ways to fight influenza. Even if we get the flu after getting the flu shot, the illness is usually milder than if we had not received the vaccine.

Vaccination has saved countless lives in Canada. Let's be thankful for what we have, and take a few minutes this November – we have an extra hour after all – to ensure our love ones have the protection they need… and deserve!

10 ways for non-hunters to get through deer season

Living Large

Humour by Steve Galea

The rifle season for is upon us. It is the most wonderful time of year for many of us. Yet those who have Bambi issues are not always as thrilled with the prospect of hearing another deer hunting story. With that in mind, here are 10 ways to avoid that situation.

1. Fake being in a coma for two weeks. This won't always stop people from telling you a hunting story, especially if it involves a buck that's 10 points or better. But, at the very least it will cause the person telling it to forego many of the less important details.
2. When the person begins their story about the deer they just tagged, cut in and say, "I'd love to hear your story but first let me get my guitar and play along. I'm new at this so it should be fun." By the time you return, they'll be gone.
3. The minute a smiling hunter approaches you, execute a pre-emptive strike by saying, "I suppose you want to hear about my revolutionary new method of bunion removal?"
4. Dress as a mime artist for the entire hunting season.
5. Wear a T-shirt that says, "Ask me about whole life insurance."
6. Say, "Sure, I'd love to hear your story. Can you tell it to me as we rake the lawn?"
7. When two hunters walk up and one begins telling how he got his deer, look at the other one and say, "So this is the jerk who's taking credit for your deer…"
8. Put out the word that you need to borrow $20. Unless the hunter has told the story to everyone else, he'll avoid you.
9. Scream out "Hey! I heard you tagged the biggest deer in the county!" And then make up a heroic story how. No hunter will correct you.
10. When someone begins their story, say, "Before you go any further, I think you should know I was raised by deer."

Mental Health services marks two decades in county

By Angelica Ingram

Along the walls of the Haliburton Highlands Mental Health Services office are colourful pieces of art of all shapes and kinds.

Masks can be found on one wall, where others have paintings, drawings and collages.

The art represents more than just a fun time with markers and glue sticks, but of a journey mental health services has undergone.

On Nov. 14, the health services branch will be celebrating 20 years in the community, marking the occasion with an open house from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Manager Dave Jarvis, 63, has been with the organization for nearly 16 years and has seen some changes and growth in that time.

Prior to the start of mental health services in 1996, there were some services available in the community, said Jarvis.

"There was some idea that they needed to be realigned," he said.

Jarvis said there were five organizations interested in overseeing the services and that the ministry chose Haliburton Highlands Health Services.

"This anniversary celebrates the inauguration of mental health services under the umbrella of HHHS," said Jarvis.

Some of the more standout changes he has seen in the past two decades are the growth in staff numbers, from less than four full-time staff at the beginning to 10 currently.

Another big change is the increase in housing units available to those using mental health services.

"Fairly quickly after I started, we had been successful in getting an additional two full-time staff and they were associated with the housing program," said Jarvis. "The homelessness initiative back in those days gave us 20 units with rent supplements. We've had those units almost 10 years."

Haliburton Highlands Mental Health Services manager Dave Jarvis stands among colourful walls of art made by members of the community. The art exercise is therapeutic and will be available to try during the open house on Nov. 14. ANGELICA INGRAM Staff

Following that change came the introduction of early psychosis intervention in around 2005, he said.

"I was actually the first early psychosis intervention counsellor/case manager for Haliburton County, prior to becoming the manager."

There have also been smaller investments made for peer support and crisis.

The office has been in its current location at 14 IGA Rd. Suite 201, for about six years, marking the first expansion for the organization.

The new location allowed space for community partners such as Four County Crisis, Fourcast, Community Legal Services, and Brain Injury Association Peterborough Region, resulting in a "hub of services," says Jarvis.

"We've been able to enhance our presence in the county by integrating with other organizations in the same area," he said.

The facility includes a kitchen, office space, a boardroom, fitness area and a space dedicated to making art, which is done on a drop-in basis.

The expressive arts program, led by Fay Wilkinson, has become a very popular one, Jarvis said, and will be part of the open house on Nov. 14.

Since he has began working in mental health services, Jarvis has seen an increase in broader acceptance of issues and in youth accessing services.

"We've noticed here a trend, in terms of our client base, an increase in the young people, say between the ages of 14 to 34, represent about 32 per cent of the clients," said Jarvis. "That's a huge increase. Three years ago ... it was 25 per cent."

Jarvis points to increased awareness resulting in clients acting sooner.

One of the proudest achievements of mental health services is that there are no waiting lists, he said.

"The theory there is that it takes a lot of courage to muster up the will power to make the phone call in the first place or to walk in," he said. "To be told you're going to go on a wait list for three months ... we don't feel it's fair to make people wait. It's a disservice."

The services are offered in a variety of ways, as there is a community outreach component. Jarvis says he has met clients at Tim Hortons, in the park or even gone for a drive with them, to help make them more comfortable.

Many of the clients are family members of those with mental health issues, as there are resources available for them as well.

In its 20 years of operation, mental health services has served approximately 3,700 people, representing about 25 per cent of the county's population.

The open house will begin at 10 a.m. with free workshops throughout the day, refreshments, art making and closing remarks at 2 p.m.

Haliburton Highlands Mental Health Services is located in the Heritage Plaze at 14 IGA Rd., Suite 201. For information contact 705-286-4575.

Screening can detect problems early

Local residents are encouraged to make a potentially life-saving decision by getting screened for breast, cervical and colorectal cancers.

The Haliburton, Kawartha, Pine Ridge District Health Unit is urging people to be screened for the three most common cancers so that any potential problems can be detected early. In Ontario, the screening procedures for these three common forms of cancer are offered at no cost.

"Spending a few minutes to be screened for breast, cervical or colorectal cancer can be a valuable investment of time and energy," says Elsie Azevedo Perry, a chronic disease and injury prevention co-ordinator with the HKPR District Health Unit. "Regular screening helps to find cancers sooner, meaning treatment can start faster. This can greatly improve the survival rates for each of these cancers."

To find out more information, call Cancer Care Ontario toll-free at 1-866-662-9233 or visit www.ontario.ca/screenforlife. According to Cancer Care Ontario:

Breast cancer is the most common cancer in Canadian women, with one in nine women expected to be diagnosed with it in their lifetime. When breast cancer is caught early, most women (90 per cent) make a full recovery after treatment. The cancer is also less likely to spread to other parts of the body.

Almost 100 per cent of cervical cancer cases are caused by the human papillomavirus (HPV). With three out of four women getting the HPV virus at some point in their lives, screening is essential for catching HPV infections before they become cancer.

Colorectal cancer (cancer of the colon or rectum) is the third-most diagnosed type of cancer in Canada. It can be caused by lifestyle, as well as family history/genes. Typically, the risk of colorectal cancer increases with age, with roughly 90 per cent of new cases diagnosed in people aged 50 years and older.

"Early stages of cancer can be difficult to see or feel, so regular screening is vital to help catch things early," Azevedo Perry notes. "Take the time to get screened because your health matters."

Library gala to feature guest speaker as himself

By Angelica Ingram

Michael Redhill will not be showing up in a wig at Pinestone Resort and Conference Centre on Nov. 13.

The acclaimed Canadian writer jokes that one of the most common interview questions he's asked is if he'll be wearing a wig when doing appearances.

The question may seem like an odd one, but it's not that unusual once you consider that Redhill has been writing many of his novels under the pseudonym of Inger Ash Wolfe.

"Not everybody knows the pseudonym is female," he says. "Inger is a female name."

The name was created from a version of his grandmother's maiden name, which was Wolfinger. He chose the name to honour his grandmother, whom he called a great storyteller.

A full-time writer for many decades, Redhill, 50, decided to use a pseudonym because of the anonymity it would afford him.

Redhill says he always wanted to be a writer, as he grew up in a house surrounded by books.

"I made books when I was a kid. I would cut things out and paste them on pages and staple stuff together," he says. "Some of these became best sellers."

He began his true writing career at the ripe age of 14, he jokes, when he created a book of poetry.

"I remember I made what I thought was an elaborate selection of poetry in a duotang. And I painted the title on the cover," says Redhill.

Raised in Toronto, Redhill began publishing poetry for real in the 1980s and moved on to novels in the early 2000s.

Some of his earlier titles include Martin Sloane, Fidelity and Consolation.

After gaining notoriety in literary circles and delving into the world of publishing, (Redhill spent many years involved with Canadian literary magazine Brick, nine as publisher) the writer's career took an interesting turn.

In 2008 a book titled The Calling was published under the pseudonym Inger Ash Wolfe. It featured a female detective by the name of Hazel Micallef and was later turned into a studio film starring Susan Sarandon.

The novel became the first of many to be published under the fake name, which led to a mystery around the author's identity.

"The idea for the first novel ... came first and I didn't know what to do with it because it didn't feel like something that I would normally write. But it stuck around and I kept developing it," says Redhill. "I think I returned to something that I thought of a number of times in my life, which is that feeling of starting over."

The idea meant Redhill could publish a book without the baggage or positive aspects of having his name behind it, and see what would happen, he said.

"There was a lot of curiosity involved and it was fun," he says. "It was fun at first."

More books were released under the secret identity, all following detective Micallef. Eventually though, the jig was up and in 2012 Redhill identified himself as the writer of these books.

"After the first two books we all realized that not being able to promote the books in the few remaining ways you can promote a book in public was really hurting the series' chances," he says. "I didn't really want to [reveal myself]. It was fun to follow from the sidelines."

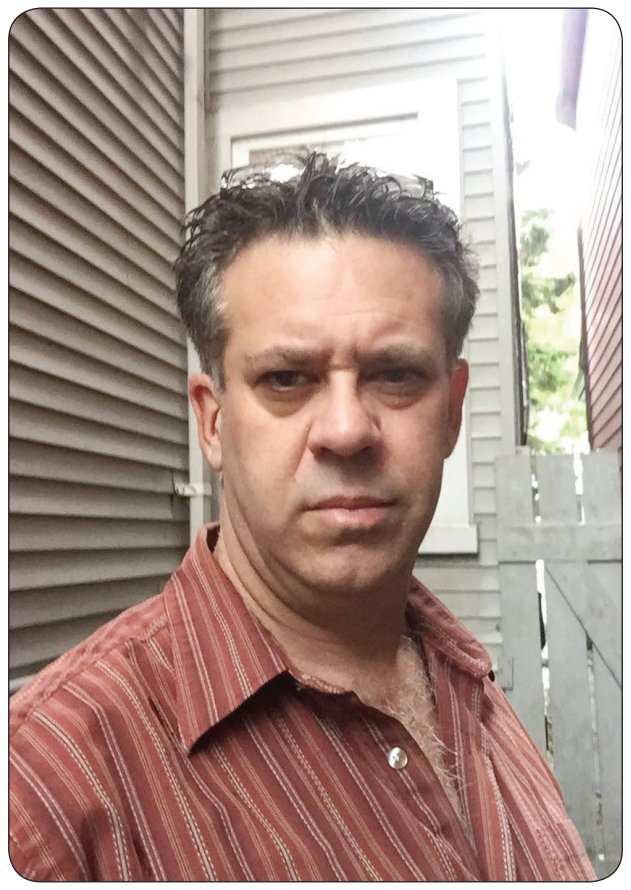
Redhill said the identity gave him the opportunity to take a new direction in his career and step away from what he was known for.

He has continued to publish under the pseudonym and will be speaking on the most recent novel, The Night Bell, published in 2015, at the upcoming gala.

Redhill has thought about dabbling into non-fiction, but still has more works of fiction he'd like to complete first.

While he has plans for more books, he isn't releasing too many details anytime soon. A fitting decision for a writer who has chosen paths of mystery.

The Haliburton County Public Library Book Gala will take place on Nov. 13 at 1 p.m. at Pinestone Resort.



Writer Michael Redhill, who also pens books under the name of Inger Ash Wolfe, will be this year's guest speaker at the Haliburton County Library gala on Nov. 13. PHOTO SUBMITTED

Tickets are $25 and can be purchased at Master's Bookstore or by calling 705-286-1071.

Miss Noreen Carnochan Honored At Shower

On Friday evening, June 6th a gathering of thirty ladies met at the home of Mrs. Walter Kellett when a shower was given for Miss Noreen Carnochan, a bride to be.

Mrs. Kellett was assisted by Mrs Chester Kellett and the evening was one to be remembered.

Miss Carnochan, daughter of Mr and Mrs T. A. Carnochan will be a June bride and after her marriage to Mr. Robert Bishop will reside in Quebec.

The members of the Women's Association presented Miss Carnochan with a lovely table lamp. She also received several other gifts from friends and associates. The ladies also presented Miss Carnochan with a box of recipes.

The evening was most delightful and Mrs. Walter Kellett and Mrs Chester Kellett provided a lovely lunch.

An address was read by Mrs. Walter Kellett and was as follows:

Dear Noreen:

As we gather here tonight we have feelings of joy mixed with sorrow. We are happy that you are soon to be married and our wish is that though you may live to be hundred years old you will enjoy every moment of your married life with Bob.

Our sorrow is that you will not be living here amongst us and we know how much we will miss you. As a token of good wishes and appreciation of what you have meant to us, we some of your Haliburton friends want you to accept this gift. May it lighten the pathway of your life for many years to come.

We know that you will never forget Haliburton and we can assure you that we will often think of you. Come back and see us whenever you can. The Welcome Mat will always be out for you both.

—Signed on behalf of your many Haliburton friends.

Mrs. Arnott served the most delightful lunch and the many new faces round the lake enjoyed meeting the past residents.

City Slicker Catches All The Fish

Minden—Much to the chagrin of his host, Mr. Arthur Noice, and his guide Mr. Jimmie Minto, Mr. Albert A. Brooks, president of the Ontario Cork Co., Toronto caught several fine lake trout in Gull Lake while the host and guide had to be content with watching him haul them in.

Neither Art or Jimmie could even raise a bite.

Mr. Brooks who was the guest of Mr and Mrs Noice over the week end, returned to the city on Monday.

Dysart Recreation Committee Hold Meeting

The Dysart Recreation Comittee held their monthly meeting at the Echo office last Tuesday night. This meeting boasted a 100 per cent attendance with all members on hand. Those present were Mrs. Gladys Kingston, Mrs. Mervin Robertson, Mrs. Ronald Curry, Roy Brohm, Glenn Austin, Carl Hussey, Jaek Austin, Albert Larue and Creighton Feir.

Many important business items were discussed.

It was decided at this meeting to send Herb Baker, Ken Pearson to the swimming class at Orillia last week end.

A great deal of time was given to the proposed spot to put the swings and slides at the Haliburton Community Park. With the park to be used as a parking lot this summer it is a question to know just were to put these amusements.

In an attempt to have a grand playground for the kids a new slide is being erected for the park.

The question of the Rotary park was brought up and the time was set for swimming instruction this summer.

The Recreation Committee would like to take this opportunity to thank Mr. Red Mitchell and the Lindsay Ball Club for coming to Haliburton to play a game last week.

Letters To Editor

Haliburton, Ontario,
June 7th, 1952.

The Editor,
Haliburton County Echo.

Dear Mr. Editor:

I note with interest in this weeks paper some excellent pictures of huge trout caught in the County. Along with these pictures is an advertisement reading "For Quick Results Use Tht Classified Section of the Echo." I have heard that your Classified Section really gets results but never thought it good enough to get the big trout.

Would you please insert an ad so worded that I can get one of these "Big Fellows".

All I appear to be able to catch are little ones.

Yours for more and bigger fish,

—An Ardent Fisherman.

Following the Hymn, From Ocean unto Ocean. Mrs. Lorne Dawson, secretary read the minutes of the last meeting which were given approval. The roll was called, reports read and Thank Offering boxes were turned in.

Mrs. Lorne Dawson brought to the attention of hte members the programme of the 27th Annual Conference of the Women's Auxiliary to the MSCC Deanery of Haliburton, to be held at St. Ptter's Church, at Maple Lake on Wednesday, June 25th, to which Mrs. Dawson urged as many as could to attend.

It was decided that Saturday, July 19th should be the day set for the Annual Bazaar which will be held on the lawn of the Bank of Commerce.

A suggestion was made that an effort be made to improve and tidy up the grounds surrounding the church. Several members offered to donate plants that would make a decorative boarder to the church entrance and arrangements were made to have a bee Monday night to accomplish this work.

Mrs. Dawson read a portion of the Study Book, after which a delightful afternoon tea was served, with Mr. William Welch acting as co hostess.

Ladies Auxiliary Attend Rally At Peterboro

The officers and some of the members of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Haliburton Branch of the Canadian Legion attended the Annual Legion Rally of the Ladies Auxiliary of Canada held at the Peterboro Legion Hall on rFiday last. Those who attended from Haliburton are as follows.

Pres. Mrs Lloyd Whittaker; 1st Vice Pres., Mrs Austin Henderson; Sec'y, Mrs. Vernon Parish; Mrs Harry Davies; Mrs. Wm. Baker; Mrs George Wilson; Mrs Syd Johnson; Mrs. Margaret Henderson.

Over 350 members of the various branches throughout Canada attended the rally with over 10 other Auxiliarys.

Annual reports were read by the various groups and Mrs Lloyd Whittaker gave the report of the Haliburton Branch, and Mrs. Vernon Parish the Secretary took the minutes of the meeting.

The ladies heard several reports in hopes of gaining some ideas to make money to give to the new Legion Hall being constructed at Haliburton.

Next year the Annual Legion rally is to be held at Lakefield. The following year it is hoped that the rally will be held in the new Legion Hall at Haliburton.

After the meeting a banquet was held for all the members in the Peterborough Legion Hall.

H. & S. Plan Film and Speech

Next Monday night will be the last Home and School Association meeting of the season. It will be held at the High School, Haliburton at 8:30 p.m.

The varied programme will consist of a film, an address, the installation of the new President and other new executive members, some musical items and a social half hour.

Due to the resignation of the President, Mr. David Clee, Mrs. Bruce Henry, recently elected will be installed as the new President on Monday night. Mr. Harry Bagshaw of Eagle Lake will be installed as Vice President and Mr. K. T. Plourde as an Executive member.

The guest speaker is well known in the district — Mr. A. Stouffer, the Public School inspector.

The evenings film will be the one on Haliburton, "The Legend of Haliburton". This will be an excellent opportunity for parents to see this film of great local interest.

Musical items will be given by Shirley Teatro and Lynn Holland, both being prize winners at the recent music festival at Haliburton.

The programme will end with the usual social half hour when refreshments will be served.

It is hoped that all members will turn up to this last meeting of the Association before the Summer holidays.

Lilliputian Lovelies Line Up To See Lorne Dawson

At least that is the only deduction I could make when I saw less than a dozen baby carriages queued up across the front of his place of business one morning this week.

Of course it might be that Lorne is out smarting George Weston of Arrowroot fame and starting a tour of Europe for fifty of the Safety Pin set. I must remember to read the small print on his new Tourist Sign.

We all know Lorne Dawson to be a successful business tycoon, but had no idea up to now that he approached his prospective clients at such a tender age. He may have something there — after all what play penner wouldn't enjoy a peek a boo session with good ol' J. Lorne.
